Hose technology and rolling systems from one source

Close cooperation of VIGOT and Braunwarth

Tradition, Innovation, Cooperation: under this motto VIGOT and Braunwarth joined forces at the start of 2016. VIGOT is a leading specialist in hose technology with its head office in Bremen. Braunwarth is based in Überlingen on Lake Constance and supplies the matching rolling systems. Together they now cover the German market nationwide. Industrial customers benefit from complete solutions from one source.

“No hose without a rolling system. Now what belongs together anyway is growing together,” emphasises Lars Blatt, Managing Partner at VIGOT. “As a hose specialist we have already worked together with Braunwarth in the past. Our joint cooperation strategy now raises this collaboration to a whole new level.” Both companies - VIGOT was founded in 1864 and Braunwarth in 1896 - look back on a long tradition and place the focus on innovative solutions for industrial customers from various sectors. “In the context of complete solutions from one source the cooperation constitutes a clear advantage for our joint customers,” Jürgen Kugler, Managing Director of Braunwarth is convinced.

Advisory expertise and customer proximity
Braunwarth knows what VIGOT can do. The same applies the other way round of course. It does not matter whether customers now approach one company or the other: they always benefit from comprehensive advisory expertise in all matters of hose technology and rolling systems. Hose conduit and rolling system are no longer regarded separately but as a functioning unit. It is ensured that hose and rolling system are optimally harmonised. In addition, having a contact person for both areas saves time and money.

Hose technology and rolling systems from one source

Close cooperation of VIGOT and Braunwarth

At the start of 2016 VIGOT and Braunwarth joined forces. VIGOT is a leading specialist in hose technology. Braunwarth supplies the matching rolling systems. Industrial customers benefit from complete solutions from one source.

Braunwarth knows what VIGOT can do – and vice versa: it does not matter whether customers now approach one company or the other: they always benefit from comprehensive advisory expertise in all matters of hose technology and rolling systems. Hose conduit and rolling system are no longer regarded separately but as a functioning unit. It is ensured that hose and rolling system are optimally harmonised. Over and above that, having a contact person for both areas saves time and money. VIGOT is based in Bremen and Mainz, Braunwarth in Überlingen on Lake Constance. Together the two traditional companies cover the whole of the German market as well as Austria, Switzerland and the Benelux countries.
